Record Attendance at Armistice Service

There was a record attendance at the Armistice service sponsored by the Canadian Legion and held in the Irma Theatre on November 11th.

The Roll of Honor was read by Cde. A. C. Milne; the Memorial Wreath presented by Cdes. Larson and Pendleton. The Last Post was sounded by two buglers from the Sea Cadet Band.

Two anthems, "In My Father's House" and "The Lord Shall Be My Refuge" were sung by the United Church choir. The Rev. L. D. Sheardown of the Alliance Church was in charge of the service and read portions of scripture from the Gospel of St. John and the Book of Revelations. He gave a stirring message telling of the bravery and sacrifice of those who fought and died for us in the two world wars and earnestly called us to remember the challenge of constant warfare against Satan and his forces of evil. The victory can be ours through Christ.

Following the service the veterans with the Sea Cadets and Sea Cadet Bugle Band from Wainwright, paraded from the theatre to the Legion Hall.

Joshua Holt, Oldtimer of Irma & Fabyan, Laid to Rest

On Monday, November 9th, one of Irma's oldtime and highly respected citizens was laid to rest in the Irma cemetery. The funeral was from the Irma United Church with Rev. G. A. Crawley, Anglican minister from Viking in charge of the service.

The officers and members of Gild-Edge Loyal Orange Lodge, supplemented by Orangemen from Maxville and other points, performed the Orange funeral rites at the graveside.

Joshua Patrick Holt was born in County Kilkenny, Ireland, on March 6th, 1877. He joined the Royal Irish Constabulary in 1905 and served in that force for eight years. Married to Mary Cameron of Ballymaluskerry Toome Bridge, County Antrim, on August 7th, 1907, nine children were born to this union; five boys and four girls, all of whom are still living. Joshua and Mrs. Holt celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1957.

Volunteering for service with the Royal Ulster Rifles in 1914, he saw active service on the Western front, being wounded three times, most severely by shrapnel at Ypres in 1917.

Emigrating to Canada with his family in 1926, he settled at Irma, later taking up farming north of Fabyan where he continued to reside until his death on November 6th.

He was an active member of the Orange Order for more than fifty years and held many offices. He was also a Grand Black Knight and past master of the Black Preceptor since 1924.

Always active and interested in church affairs, he served as select vestry man for more than half a century.

He leaves to mourn his passing as well as his widow and nine children, seventeen grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, one brother Joseph in Maryland, U.S.A., who is now the only surviving member of a family of thirteen.

The pall bearers were Bill and Frank Crabb, Bob Dempsey, Jim Jackson, Lars Mygland and Nick McTurk.

Floral tributes were received as follows: Wreath from the family; Flowers from Mr. and Mrs. Allen Taylor; Gilt Edge Loyal Orange Lodge; Management and staff of Woodward's, Edmonton; Flowers to the house from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton, Edmonton.

TALE OF THE TUB

I always thought that today's bathtubs were a symbol of modern progress. I could not imagine any earlier, more primitive means of bathing than those Saturday night scrubbing in the wash tub in front of the kitchen stove.

Now I find bathtubs have a history that dates back 3,000 years and many earlier civilizations developed bathing to a fine art. A medical magazine article recounts how baths and healing have always been closely linked and that bathing through the centuries has been for pleasure as well as cleanliness.

The first bath of which records exist had mystic significance of protection from spirits and purification of guilt and sin. Ancient priests used to bathe before prayers. Hindu pilgrims still bathe in the sacred Ganges river, as did ancient pilgrims in the Nile and Jordan.

Pagans worshipped wells and springs believed to have magic healing powers. Modern medicine utilized special baths for treatment of diseases like polio.

Bathing was routine to ancient Greeks. Wealthy ones had baths installed in their homes but public baths were very popular. These were elaborate structures of glass and marble. In ancient Rome men, women, emperors and soldiers bathed together in sumptuous baths. Dressing rooms had locker-like niches where bathers left their togas. Some baths were equipped with gymnasiums, auditoriums and gardens. People ate meals and drank wine while bathing and sometimes spent whole days at the baths.

Such social bathing fell into disfavor with the early Christian church. Baths were recommended for hygiene not pleasure. Public bathing became popular again however in the 12th century when Crusaders brought back reports of luxurious Arab baths.

Public baths sprang up again in England. Russian steam baths and Turkish hot-air baths also spread westward. Japanese public baths are still extremely popular but far more hygienic and decorous than the ancient ones. The custom of wearing body linen or under-wear which began in the 16th century, seems to have doomed pleasure baths. Bathing was no longer considered necessary.

Private baths originated in medieval times as a small shallow oval, functional for a seated bather and were common equipment in castles and mansions.

The American White House acquired its first bathroom in 1851. The Americans were shocked at this "English innovation corrupting simple American democracy."

It was the enterprising slogan of "Cleanliness is good business" that stimulated soap, plumbing and related industries and developed the modern bathroom as essential to our living standards.

Manitoba's battling trout on world stage

Manitoba has good news for anglers all over North America and as far away as France who are anxious to tangle with fighting lake trout reared in the cold waters of West Hawk Lake and Clearwater Lake at The Pas.

More than two-million lake trout eggs plus 100,000 spawling eggs are being flown south from The Pas to the Whitehall trout hatchery. After a couple of weeks in incubators at the hatchery more than three-quarters of the eggs will be shipped to various state and provincial conservation agencies in North America and in France. The eggs will be hatched at those places and then distributed in their lakes.

Manitoba exchanges these lake trout eggs with other agencies in return for eggs of other trout species not common in the province. The shipment to France is a co-operative undertaking with the Canadian Wildlife Service of the federal government.

The remaining quarter of the eggs will be incubated and hatched at the Whitehall hatchery sometime in January or February. They will then lie dormant until March or April. They will be released in various provincial lakes as fingerlings sometime during the summer or fall.

The Fisheries Branch of Manitoba's department of mines and natural resources operate both the Clearwater Spawling camp and the Whitehall Trout Hatchery. Fish culturists in the branch said that more than 100,000 young fish will be reared over the winter at West Hawk Lake and released next summer as yearling fish rather than as fingerlings.

The yearling fish are big enough to escape being eaten by larger fish in the lake. Some of the fingerlings aren't so lucky.

The anti-reducers

Not everyone is trying to reduce, although it is a popular obsession. There are others who would welcome the addition of a few extra pounds. By following in reverse the advice given to the heavy weights, they may acquire the desired extra poundage. Cream soups, whole milk with a little added cream, cream on cereals, and an extra helping of favorite dishes will help. Between-meals snacks and plenty of rest should be part of the add-a-pound plan. First step, of course, would be to consult the doctor, just in case the underweight condition is due to ill health.

Booklet on South Saskatchewan River project now available

"Harnessing the South Saskatchewan," a colorful, 25-page booklet summarizing all aspects of the South Saskatchewan River Project, is now available for public distribution, Premier T. C. Douglas announced recently.

The booklet was produced for the South Saskatchewan River Development Commission by the department of travel and information. Many fine photographs and maps are used to illustrate the brochure, which also contains a table of construction statistics.

The comprehensive booklet outlines the immediate and long range prospects for irrigation, power development, domestic and industrial water supply, flood control, and the broad vistas for the expansion and growth of recreational areas which the project will create.

"Because the people of Saskatchewan will pay the major portion of the cost of this project, we are anxious that they be given an opportunity to study a concise account of the project's many phases," Mr. Douglas said. "This new booklet should adequately meet the public need for an overall picture of the South Saskatchewan project — a long held dream now reaching fruition."

Requests for the booklet should be directed to: Department of Travel and Information, Legislative Annex, Regina, Sask.

Blessing of cars prays for drivers

The Roman Catholic church's ritual blessing of vehicles also asks God's assistance in controlling the will of the drivers themselves and implies their moral obligations while at the wheel, explained His Holiness Pope John XXIII in Vatican City. The Pope said that the prayer of the ritual in blessing automobiles is "to be more exact, for the will of the man who must drive in a disciplined manner".

He said, "It invokes the assistance of the angels of God to preserve from every danger the travelers who, anxious to reach quickly their earthly destinations, must not lose sight of the ways to eternal salvation."

The Pontiff praised all organizations of the world who promote respect for highway regulations as well as respect for one's own and one's neighbor's life. He added his own voice to their appeals that traffic laws be observed and that everything be done to safeguard human life and the tranquility of daily life. — Canadian Highway Safety Conference Bulletin.

THE CONVALESCENT

The convalescence of the discharged tuberculosis patient should be deliberately slow and careful. Getting back to health cannot be rushed. Social activities must be deferred until strength is regained and resumed only when the doctor decides that the patient is ready. Until then, the patient must follow orders regarding exercise, diet and rest.

Film Library Set Up in Viking and Irma

The National Film Board of Canada has again this year organized a Film Library in Viking and Irma. Each month 5 or 6 selected films will be placed in these communities for the use of Churches, Clubs, Groups, and individuals. In Viking, bookings may be made with Rev. Clinton Swallow; and in Irma, with Rev. Harvey Inglis. The National Film Board do not charge for the use of the films, but to cover the costs of shipping the films and transporting the Projector, which is also available, there will be a small rental to those organizations that can afford it. The films will normally be in Viking during the first half of each month and in Irma during the last half. However, if plenty of time is allowed for bookings, it may be possible to arrange for a film any time during the month, from either town.

In the month of November the following films will be available:

1. BORDERLINE. B & W 22 minutes. The story of a 15 year old girl defiant of parental authority. An excellent film not only for those with teenagers in the family, but for all parents.

2. HOW TO BUILD AN IGLOO. Color. 11 minutes. Not the answer to our housing problem but a delightful film illustrating the native craftsmanship of our Canadian Eskimos.

3. THE YELLOW LEAF. B & W 20 minutes. With a home for Senior Citizens soon to be under construction here, this film is timely. It raises the question of helping older people adjust themselves to their new home.

4. YOUR FOREST HERITAGE. Color. 18 minutes. A plea for greater care with fire when visiting our woodlands.

5. BEING DIFFERENT. B & W 11 minutes. The film is intended to provoke a discussion among teenagers on conformity or non-conformity and briefly depicts a situation in which a decision has to be made and then leaves it to the audience to decide.

CROSSBREEDING CATTLE:

With the trend back to more size in beef cattle there has been more widespread use of crossbreeding in commercial cattle. There has also been a buyer preference for some of the crossbreds as feeders. Properly applied, crossbreeding can produce feeder cattle with good growth for age and with the ability to produce good gains in the feedlot. It should be remembered that best results are obtained when a purebred bull of one breed and of good quality is mated to good quality females of another breed. In crossbreeding, as in any other mating, the quality of the sire and dam determine the quality of the offspring. Some concern is felt over another trend, which is to use crossbred sires in a crossbreeding program. No crossbred bull, whether he is of Hereford, Angus, Shorthorn, Charolais or Galloway background is going to give his offspring the hybrid vigor which he shows, and in addition the uniformity of size and conformation of the first cross is going to disappear. We have found in the past that crossbred bulls spoiled a lot of herds so commercial cattlemen are urged to think this over before going too far.

SORGHUM ALUMINUM TESTED:

There was a lot of interest last spring in the forage crop Sorghum Aluminum. Because of doubt as to its value in Alberta farmers were urged to be cautious. The experimental farm at Lacombe tested this crop this past summer and their findings showed that this year at least it had little place in Alberta. Sorghum Aluminum yielded 0.74 tons of dry matter per acre. Data yielded 2.74 tons per acre, Millet 2.48 tons, Corn 1.77 tons, Brome from first cutting yielded 0.98 tons per acre. As Sorghum Aluminum is supposed to be a perennial the stand will be left over winter to test its winter hardiness.

SEED SUPPLIES:

Seed may be in short supply in this district. If you think you have seed, now is the time to get a germination test so that you know for sure. If you will need seed, now is the time to start seeing about getting it. Get your seed cleaned now while there is no rush.

ALBERTA FARM GUIDE:

Alberta has finally prepared a Farm Guide. This 200 page book is the first of its kind in Alberta and has taken a year to prepare. It gives good general coverage of all the different phases of agriculture.

While this book is not available to school children, teachers may obtain one copy for use in classroom instruction. Farmers may get a copy at this office or by writing to the Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, Legislative Buildings, Edmonton.

SOIL DRIFTING:

In spite of the wet fall there is the possibility that we may have soil drifting in this district if there is no snow cover and the winds keep blowing as they have. Usually this can be prevented or stopped if straw or manure is spread wherever the first small areas start to move. This is usually on knolls or ridges. It pays a farmer to watch closely and take action at the first sign of dust moving. If prompt action is not taken it may be necessary to take more drastic action such as using a plow or lister on larger areas.

GRAIN DRYERS:

This wet fall has once again created a lot of interest in grain dryers. While there are many valuable features to consider in a good dryer there are also a few things to remember concerning them. The greatest hazard is overheating the grain. Temperatures of over 110 deg. F. seriously damage grain for seed purposes, temperatures over 130 deg. F. make wheat unsuitable for milling and temperatures of over 160 deg. F. seriously reduce its feed value. This means that one of the first things to look for in a dryer is good heat control. Another valuable point is some kind of recirculating mechanism so as to prevent hot spots in the grain. Of the samples of dried grain tested by the wheat board this year, about 80 percent had been damaged by overheating. There are many makes of commercial dryers on the market and anyone planning to buy one should investigate well before buying.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Russel Honored at Metropolitan School

Mr. and Mrs. David Russel of Edmonton, who were spending the weekend with David's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Russel, were taken completely by surprise when the district held a shower in their honor following the church service at Metropolitan School on Sunday.

Miss Linda Rawluk delighted all with a hoola-hoop demonstration following which a well planned skit by Mrs. Comely led to the gifts being brought in in large paint tins. The gifts were then opened and admired by all for which they both expressed their sincere thanks. A delicious lunch brought the afternoon to a close.

This Makes the Eagle Scream

NEW YORK (CP)—The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency reached a high for 1959 Monday of $1.0594.

The closing figure was 7 - 64 above Friday's close, the previous peak.

Foreign exchange traders said the strength of the Canadian dollar resulted from heavy financing by public and private borrowers in U.S. capital markets during recent weeks.

The highest recorded premium of $1.06 11-64 was reached Aug. 27, 1957.

FARM DRYING OF GRAIN

The drying of damp grain calls for extreme care and a full understanding of all the factors involved. Improper drying of wheat can seriously affect the breadmaking potentialities of the grain. Those operating grain driers are urged to submit samples, taken before and after drying, for testing by the Grain Research Laboratory, Winnipeg. Only in this way can they be sure that the driers are being operated without damage to grain. Ask your nearest Searle Elevator Agent for particulars.

CNR Continental to use new Edmonton-Saskatoon route

In an effort to bring trans-continental train service to a greater number of communities in Saskatchewan and Alberta, Canadian National Railways has announced that its Continental will be re-routed between Saskatoon and Edmonton via North Battleford, Lloydminster, Vermilion, Vegreville and Fort Saskatchewan. The new service became effective October 25.

The Super Continental will continue to operate over its present route. In addition, Train No. 91 will provide an overnight service, daily except Sunday, between Saskatoon and Edmonton via Biggar and Watrous. In the opposite direction, Train No. 92 will provide a day service, daily except Sunday, from Edmonton to Saskatoon.

In making the announcement, CNR officials said the change is being made in recognition of the growing importance of those communities which the Continental will serve on its new route.

CNR Railliner service between Edmonton, Lloydminster and North Battleford will continue to operate on its present schedule. However, Railliner service between Saskatoon and North Battleford was withdrawn on October 25.

LEST WE FORGET

When Canadians everywhere observe a moment of silence at 11:00 a.m. on November 11th, it will be in tribute to those Canadian servicemen who have paid the supreme sacrifice in battle. More than 1,000,000 Commonwealth servicemen—nearly 65,000 Canadians—lie in 16,000 cemeteries in more than 100 countries. Marked by simple headstones or white crosses, the graves are reverently cared for by the people of the country in which they lie. In tribute to Canada's fallen soldiers, the above photograph shows: centre, a Canadian corporal standing in reverence beneath a figure of the Virgin Mary, miraculously remaining practically

FACTS ON ARTHRITIS

SYMPTOMS MAY GO THOUGH ARTHRITIS STAY

A mysterious phenomenon which sometimes occurs in rheumatoid arthritis often confirms the arthritis sufferer's belief in quick cures and nostrums.

This phenomenon is known as spontaneous remission, and when it occurs in arthritis, their pain and other symptoms disappear or greatly diminish and they believe they have been cured, according to The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Saskatchewan Division.

If, at the time the remission occurs or just prior to it they have been wearing a copper bracelet, dieting on cod liver oil, or using a quick remedy, they believe the cure has been caused by the bracelet, the diet or the drug.

But in reality the Society said, their disease has not been cured, but has only regressed, and the drug or nostrum has had nothing to do with the regression. Symptoms would have disappeared whether or not these remedies were being employed.

Such remissions occur spontaneously and for no reason medical science has yet been able to determine. Furthermore, the symptoms may return without warning.

Hope for arthritis CARE said, lies in a program of medical treatment supervised by the family doctor. Such a program may require prolonged supervision and may include some of the specialized services of The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

By pinning their hopes to quick remedies, arthritis may actually worsen their condition by neglecting proper treatment when it is needed.

WELL-FED, ILL-READ

by ROBERT DAVIES

November 15th marks the beginning of Young Canada's Book Week. The chances are that unless you are a librarian or a professional educator this news means no impact on you whatever. Nevertheless it is of importance because it calls attention to the fact that books should be the friends of children not only until next Saturday, but for the rest of their lives. One week's follow it, and for all the years thereafter.

We have the dubious honour of living in one of the best-fed and worst-read countries on this globe. If figures about the reading of books collected in Europe, North America and the British Commonwealth are to be trusted, we read fewer books per capita than any other civilized land, with the exception of the U.S.A. Is this serious? If we consider it important to be abreast of what the world is thinking, it is a very serious indeed.

The habit of reading is usually acquired early in life, and it is not acquired without some trouble. Reading for the young is likely to be laborious, and we live in an age when there are many other forms of entertainment much more easily available. Therefore, unless there is encouragement for reading in the home children are likely to grow up handicapped in this respect. For it is a serious handicap not to know how to use books to extend one's information and pleasure; it is true that not everything can be learned from books, but it is also true that there is no subject on which books cannot provide auxiliary information, once the beginning has been made. Books provide the help that boys and girls of more than average intelligence or ambition need to enable them to pull away from the ranks of those who never read.

In Peterborough our children and young people have the advantage of an excellent Public Library, staffed by people ready and able to help them; there is a branch library and a school service as well. Children's reference books, as well as fiction, are available and the child who wants to pursue something that has come up in school, in order to be better informed about it, has every facility for doing so.

As a general thing, however, the reading of children and young people is made up of stories, and, save before have there been so many excellent books published for them as there are today. It is no longer possible to say that there is a body of good Canadian stories for boys and girls; the publishers have felt the demand, and the books are available. They are to be found on the shelves of the Public Library (they can be given as presents).

No country which is not a reading country is prepared for the stresses and surprises of modern life. The globe has shrunk, and so we need to know more about far lands and strong peoples; we are more than ever involved with other nations of the earth, and we can learn to know a great deal about them through the books which they cherish; ours is an age of discovery, and by means of books we can keep up with the extraordinary developments in science and government. We can do all these things if we read. Surely it is time that Canada climbed to a better position than second-last? — Peterborough Examiner, Ontario.

WAR VETERANS

In the last fiscal year, Canada spent $281 million on behalf of war veterans and their dependents; pensions cost $151 million, treatment and welfare services $61 million, veterans' allowances and benefits $61 million.

Anything scarce is valuable; praise, for instance.

Reading Aloud

by Dr. Hilda Neatby
Patroness of Young Canada's Book Week

It has recently been said in Canada that a bad book can do no harm. Is the converse true? Can a good book do no good? I would emphatically dissent from both propositions. Books are a potent force for good and for evil, and especially for good or evil in the lives of the young. Nothing is more certain than that young people will find bad "literature". It is of immense importance that they should also meet good books.

Once was shown a work of a factual nature with the remark that it was "very educational". I resented the implication that such works are more educational than others, although it is indeed a source of satisfaction that the mass of useful information needed by young people today is available to them in well-written and well-produced works with abundant illustrations.

But education, broadly conceived, demands above all works of imagination: poetry, drama and fiction. Education, we are told, is growth and is life. In this broad general meaning is accepted, then works of imagination must be among the primary materials for education. Children cannot really grow, they cannot truly live, without them. We grow by experience. The relatively narrow and restricted experience of the child's life is immensely extended and enriched by those books which lead him into other worlds, and then return him to his own with a new vision and a deeper insight.

As for living, we live through close and clear contacts with other human beings. In the world of books the child meets people, his contacts with them are free and familiar. He can frequent his book friends as he chooses. They never repel him. They provide a perfect form of escape when his contacts with the world are difficult. But book people, if they are the real people of good books will return him to the world of his contemporaries more perceptive and more human.

Books are sometimes set aside (as slightly anti-social) in favour of a "group activity". It is too often forgotten that a book may be the centre of one of the best of all group activities, reading aloud. Librarians have set an admirable example in maintaining or renewing this almost forgotten art. At one time it was a central activity in almost every good home. Life in some Canadian homes is still enriched by it. In too many, however, it is now practised only for the benefit of those who cannot read, instead of bringing all together for common enjoyment of the kind of pleasure which once really tasted never fails.

Young Canada's Book Week is dedicated to the mission of making good books better known to all young Canadians, and to their elders. It is a pleasure and privilege to be allowed to act as patron in such a splendid cause.

When frightened, a mother, It is the belief of fishermen and woodcock often flies off with a scientist as the most common chick held between her legs. of all fish are herrings.

Atomic plans for Manitoba

Premier Duff Roblin has hailed federal plans to build a nuclear energy research and development centre in Manitoba as an important step forward in our progress — "one that rounds out the industrial structure of the province in a very considerable way."

He said the centre might well reach the proportions of the world-famous Chalk River development in Ontario, which currently employs 2,400 people, over 400 of them graduates.

The province and federal government have been holding discussions for some time. As a result, site surveys will be carried out within the next few months, and a site selected by early next year. Construction of buildings and laboratories, and the installation of equipment and technical services at the site will then be undertaken, and operations begun on an organic-cooled, natural uranium-fuelled, heavy water-moderated reactor experiment in about two years' time.

It is expected that over the coming years the new centre will expand into a major nuclear energy research and development establishment which will support the general scientific and technical development of western Canada.

It will be devoted exclusively to the peacetime uses of atomic energy, and directed principally to the use of atomic energy as a source of electric power. It is expected, amongst other research programs, to pave the way for commercial use of portable atomic power plants, using natural uranium and heavy water, instead of enriched uranium. Canada is a leading producer of natural uranium.

Mr. Roblin said that during discussions with the federal government, the safety factors were "very reassuring". Mr. Churchill added that the Atomic Energy Control Board (an organization quite separate from Atomic Energy of Canada) is charged with the responsibility of ensuring that atomic research and allied activities is well within the broad safety factors.

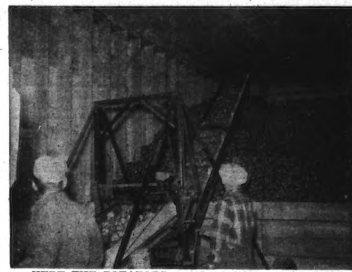

The premier said the immediate results of the project would be reflected in new types of employment and an increase in the capital equipment in the province. Its long-term benefits would be the great scientific attraction and the natural interaction that would result between the staff at the centre and the University. It would, he said, provide a stimulus, not only for physics and chemistry students, but for those in the fields of metallurgy as well.

He said the province, a heavy investor in hydro-electric and thermal generation and distribution, would keep in constant touch with progress in atomic generation.

TONS OF SPUDS BY IRRIGATION—Ten acres a day of potatoes are being harvested by this elaborate machine on the Dr. Leishman irrigation project alongside Katopwe Lake. Sorters are shown picking out culls from the conveyor belt, which discharges into a truck alongside.

HERE THE POTATOES are elevated by conveyor belt into huge bins in the new $50,000 storage building. Irish cobbler potatoes ran at 300 bushels to the acre, with Fontinas somewhat higher. The building, built by A. Brian Campbell & Sons, is weatherproofed, temperature-controlled, and has a capacity of 50,000 bushels.

EVER SEEN A TRI-PED?—If you just love pickled pigs feet, don't buy this animal. Owned by Cameron Shearer who farms in the Dapine district, this porker was born with only three legs. Mr. Shearer says the animal now weighs nearly 100 lbs., and is as big as any other from the same litter. It was as active as any other originally but, as its weight increased it slowed down and, although still active, cannot hop as long or as fast as its brothers can run. Mr. Shearer says some people have suggested there is a dwarfed leg there but he can feel nothing and will not know till butchering time.

U. of S. Golden Jubilee

The Golden Jubilee of the University of Saskatchewan ended officially in late October with a series of specially arranged "University Days" in various centres.

The climax of observances on the Saskatoon Campus, as announced earlier, came September 29th after a six-day period featuring a special Convocation and other activities.

However, one phase of the Jubilee Year that was not completed until about October 23rd involved about 40 centres outside Saskatoon where the award-winning Jubilee film "Saskatchewan, Our University" was shown. The film was part of a "university day" arranged in the centres of local communities and promoted by Ernie

B. W. MCKENZIE

McKenzie of Regina, who has been loaned to the Jubilee Committee by the provincial government.

He has spent the summer touring Saskatchewan and making arrangements with local people to hold a university day and show the film. Early next month, he will announce names of the centres involved and exact dates of their program.

Mr. McKenzie says his aim is to "get the University out into the community". To do this, he has been telling the university's story and urging community leaders to pass on information about the university through meetings like those he is promoting.

Mr. McKenzie is superintendent of audio-visual aids in the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture. A graduate of the University of Saskatchewan, he was formerly an agricultural representative at Melville.

He was chosen to organize the community program part of the University Golden Jubilee celebration because of his experience as director of community activities in connection with the Province's Jubilee in 1955.
